

2016 Upjohn Research Initiative

Call for Submissions

The AIA Upjohn Research Initiative supports applied research projects that enhance the value of design and professional practice knowledge.

This AIA program funds up to six research grants of $15,000–$30,000 annually for projects completed in a 6- to 18-month period. The funds must be fully matched with hard dollars, with a maximum of 10% allocated for overhead. Grant recipients' research findings and outcomes are published by AIA both online and in a nationally-distributed publication.

Research themes

Your submission proposal should address:

- The value of design,
- Professional practice, or
- Novel materials and methods of construction.

Your proposed research should focus on architectural knowledge that can readily be applied/transferred within the discipline.

Preferred 2016 themes

- Building performance (e.g., measurement, metrics, design practices or other research that addresses energy and/or water performance of a building)
- Climate change mitigation (e.g., resilient design strategies/approaches to address climate change impacts, lowering carbon footprint of buildings and materials)
- Human impact and wellness (e.g., materials or practices/processes that address mitigating the impact of the built environment on human well-being, including innovative approaches to measuring/monitoring human impacts, addressing obesity through design, and ergonomic considerations)
- Technology and innovation (e.g., innovative materials, visualization/design tools/practices, mobility of information to advance the profession)

Submission details

Project submissions can be completed online.

- Project title
- Abstract
- Budget
- Clients and knowledge communities served
- Summary of projected outcomes
- Images (optional)
- Principal investigator(s) with institutional affiliation(s) and contact information

Please omit any identifying information from the title, descriptive text, budget, and the optional images before submitting for the blind review process.

Criteria and selection

Given their role in helping establish the program, the jury panel is comprised of seven professionals from the AIA Board Knowledge Committee and the AIA College of Fellows. The jury evaluates each submission and selects the grant awardees based on:

- Relevance of research subject to the intent of the Upjohn program
- Preferred theme alignment
- Evidence of collaboration/partnership
- Innovation of subject matter
- Validity of research method
