AMCHP 2024 Annual Conference Session & Poster Proposals

Note : If English is not your preferred language, please use the Google Translate to update to the language you prefer.

Due Date: November 03, 2023

The 2024 AMCHP Annual Conference will be held April 13-16, 2024 at the Oakland Marriott, City Center, in Oakland, CA. At this time, AMCHP will be offering content in-person and through our virtual conference platform so that in-person and virtual attendees can actively engage and participate. The Call for Proposals will close on November 03, 2023. The deadline will NOT be extended.

Theme The theme for the 2024 conference is Partnering with Purpose. This year's annual conference theme focuses on how people who work in the MCH field can make sure that we are partnering with purpose to make the biggest impact on children and families. Partnering with purpose means that we are being intentional with who we partner with and how we engage with partners. Here are some ways that you could think of this year's theme:

- Partnering with purpose requires us to admit that we cannot know and cannot do everything ourselves. We need partnerships. We can go so much further together.
- Partnering with purpose means being intentional. It is important for us to understand and clarify our own intentions. We should understand our why, or our purpose, when we partner.
- Partnering with purpose helps us to ask important questions about power – how do good partnerships share and build power?
- Partnering with purpose is authentic and based on relationships rather than transactions or deliverables. It is the opposite of being egocentric and tokenistic.
- Partnering with purpose allows us to combine our resources, ideas, and skills for greater impact.
- Partnering with purpose opens a space for us to think about seeking new partners – people and organizations we may not have partnered with before, but who have a similar vision and goals.
- Partnering with purpose invites us to have difficult conversations. How are we giving a voice to the people we serve? How do our partnerships help us do this?

AMCHP is striving to ensure that at least 50% of accepted proposal submissions directly address the conference theme; please reference the conference objectives to determine whether your proposal addresses the conference theme or highlights key programs and advancements in MCH.

Learning Objectives

- Identify practices and policies designed to grow and support partnerships in maternal and child health (MCH) (Conference Theme)
- Discover methods to build authentic, intentional partnerships (Conference Theme)
- Apply new ideas, skills, or abilities to their current MCH work.
- Identify ways to strengthen partnerships between local and state maternal and child health (MCH) programs and families.
- Describe new skills that can improve the MCH workforce.
- Discuss the latest research in MCH.
- Describe the value of diverse professional partnerships in the MCH field.

The tracks for this year's conference are:

- Black Maternal Health • Epidemiology, Data, Assessment, and Evaluation
- Emergency Preparedness and Response
- Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs and Disabilities
- Family Engagement & Partnership
- Health Equity and addressing social determinants of health
- Mental Health/Behavioral Health
- Policy & Advocacy
- Workforce Development and Leadership
- Youth Engagement & Partnership

AMCHP Culture

AMCHP is committed to anti-racism and racial equity, and we are working to practice this commitment throughout our organization, including our partnerships, communications, and events. The AMCHP Annual Conference is the ideal platform to present your ideas, research, innovations, best practices, and effective communication strategies to MCH and other public health professionals. Our audience includes directors of state programs, federal officials, advocates, family leaders, researchers, and health care providers. We use opportunities like the AMCHP conference to live up to our commitments, including having honest conversations about racism in our areas of influence and challenging racism, explicit bias, and implicit bias wherever they exist.

Who Attends AMCHP?

More than 1,300 people attended the AMCHP 2023 Annual Conference from nearly every state/territory/jurisdiction in the United States. Your participation offers direct connections with people responsible for programs in the fields of:

- Infant and maternal mortality reduction
- Women's health
- Reproductive health
- Adolescent health

- Adolescent health
 - Children and youth with special health care needs
 - Early childhood services
- Family, youth, and community engagement Health equity

Who Should Submit a Proposal?

The AMCHP Annual Conference highlights the impact MCH programs are making at national, state, and local levels for women, children and families. It provides participants with strategies, tools and resources to develop, improve, and support needed MCH programs and services. With over 1,300 annual attendees, it is one of the largest gatherings of MCH professionals in the country. AMCHP invites people with lived experiences and partners outside our “traditional” membership, including community members, those working at community-based and community-rooted organizations, and those representing tribal governments, to participate in submitting and presenting skills-building sessions, workshops, poster sessions, and roundtables.

Please watch this webinar AMCHP put together on the submission process.

Plan Accordingly

AMCHP staff estimated it takes about 4-5 hours to pull all of the content pieces together, and 15-20 minutes to fill out the forms for the actual submission. Therefore, please plan ahead for the due day of November 03, 2023.

For more information regarding what is required during the submission process, please click here.

Submission Type Descriptions (see below):(You will select one type per submission.)

We will offer virtual options for posters, roundtables, and workshops. Skills-building sessions will be offered on-site only.

Session Type	Description	In-Person	Virtual
Skills Building Sessions	3 hours in length, Skills-building sessions are designed to teach participant new skills, methods, and tools that they can apply to their work. Please include a brief summary of your planned interactive activities, the skills or tools you are teaching participants to apply, and what you expect participants to come away with to apply to their work.	3 hour skills sessions presented on Saturday, May 6.	None; skills sessions will be presented in-person only.

Workshops	60 minutes in length, Workshops are informative sessions that often include a panel of presenters representing varying perspectives, include audience interaction, and have at least 15 minutes for Questions & Answers (Q&A).	45 minutes of presentation time with 15 minutes for discussion and Q&A; up to six sessions will take place during one workshop timeslot; up to two of the workshop sessions will be livestreamed or hosted virtually for virtual conference participants.	Workshop presenters attending in-person and not being livestreamed are encouraged to record their presentation prior to the conference for uploading into the conference platform for virtual participants and for in-person participants who do not attend their workshop during a workshop timeslot. Presenters who opt not to attend in person would work with a producer to record their content for presentation on the virtual platform.
Poster	Graphic presentation of research or program results to be placed on an 8' long x 4' tall poster board. One author must be available at the conference to set-up, answer questions during poster presentations, and take the poster down.	Physical printed poster to be displayed in the exhibit hall during poster session hours.	Digital version of the poster and a brief audio recording of no more than 5 minutes narrating the poster for the virtual participants – all posters, regardless of mode of presentation.
Student and Early Career Professional Roundtables	This is an opportunity for students and early career professionals to tap into the expertise of established and other emerging MCH professionals from across the country. Students and early career professionals whose submissions are accepted will share five-minute presentations about a topic they would like to explore in greater depth, including any questions for which they are seeking guidance. There will be time right after each presentation for attendees to discuss with the presenter; this can include sharing relevant	60 minutes of interactive presentations, audience discussion and feedback, for live attendees only.	60 minutes of live, interactive presentations, audience discussion and feedback on webconferencing platform, for virtual attendees only.

Inclusive Terms

We are committed to not using terms that worsen stereotypes or incorrect beliefs that place and describe communities of color as inferior populations (i.e. using the terms 'vulnerable', 'at-risk', or 'low-income' to describe a particular racial or ethnic group). Use of this language suggests there is something inherently wrong in that community and places blame on the individual or a particular racial/ethnic group. Language should be respectful of communities and identify the system that has failed to invest in creating an inclusive and supportive environment for positive health outcomes as the problem. 5. Session or Poster Proposal Details

Please complete all required fields.

Please note: Accepted acronyms are limited to CDC, HRSA, AMCHP, MCH (as a shortened version of "maternal and child health") and CYSHCN (as a shortened version of "children with special health care needs"). Please write out all other organizations and compound terms the first time they are mentioned, followed by the acronym in parentheses, e.g., "adolescent and young adult health (AYAH)." The acronym then can be used in the rest of the proposal.

AMCHP does not use the traditional scientific format for proposal submissions. The questions below represent parts of your proposal description, instead of a typical "abstract box" submission. Please use the questions to guide your submission, and feel free to reach out to us if you have questions or need more support. Proposal reviewers will use your responses to the following questions to evaluate your session and provide an opportunity for you to describe what is relevant, impactful, cutting-edge, and otherwise important for the AMCHP conference audience to know about the work you want to present.

As you respond to these questions, imagine you are explaining your practice, program, topic, analysis, or initiative to someone who has never heard of it before.

* Indicates a required field

1 If your preferred session type is a skills-building session or workshop and your session is not accepted, would you like to be considered for a poster presentation? *

If yes, I understand that while I can select a preferred session type, my proposal may be accepted for a different type than I select.

No

2 Are you submitting this proposal for a person or group, and you are not one of the presenters? *

Yes

3 Please select the conference objective(s) that your session will address. *

- Identify practices and policies designed to grow and support partnerships in maternal and child health (MCH) (Conference Theme)
- Discover methods to build authentic, intentional partnerships (Conference Theme)
- Apply new ideas, skills, or abilities to their current MCH work
- Identify ways to strengthen partnerships between local and state maternal and child health (MCH) programs and families
- Describe new skills that can improve the MCH workforce
- Discuss the latest research in MCH
- Describe the value of diverse professional partnerships in the MCH field

4 Provide a brief overview of what your practice, program, etc. is/does including any relevant background information such as the history behind its development and any principles or values that support it. *

5 What need(s) does it address? How did you identify this need? Who was involved? *

6 What is the key population it impacts? *

7 How does your practice, program, etc. benefit this key population? *

8 How is your practice, program, etc. contributing and/or working towards reducing health inequities and systemic oppression (including structural racism) that impact your key population? *

9 Describe each of your practice's/program's, etc. collaborators/partners and why you partnered with them. Please explain if this collaborator or partner has lived experience related to your practice focus or reflects the community/key population impacted by your practice. *

10 Describe any initial successes or other indicators that demonstrate your practice/program is working as intended. *

11 What important lessons have you learned (both positive and negative) through implementing your program that you can share with others who may seek to use or replicate this practice? *

12 If you are submitting a skills-building or roundtable session, please provide a high-level outline of your proposed session activities including interactive components. If you are submitting a workshop session, please provide a brief overview of how your session will be structured, including key takeaways for participants. *

13 Please provide a brief description of what your session will entail. This description will be published in AMCHP conference materials, including the event app and website. Please limit your description to 800 characters or less, including spaces, in paragraph form. Keep in mind that this is the description conference participants will read; you may cut and paste from items above, but you do not need to include detailed methods. *

6. Conference Theme

Please answer the following questions. These answers provide you the opportunity to describe to AMCHP reviewers how your proposal relates to the conference theme.

Description of the theme: Partnering with Purpose:

This year's annual conference theme focuses on how people who work in the MCH field can make sure that we are partnering with purpose to make the biggest impact on children and families. Partnering with purpose means that we are being intentional with who we partner with and how we engage with partners. Here are some ways that you could think of this year's theme:

- Partnering with purpose requires us to admit that we cannot know and cannot do everything ourselves. We need partnerships. We can go so much further together.
- Partnering with purpose means being intentional. It is important for us to understand and clarify our own intentions. We should understand our why, or our purpose, when we partner.
- Partnering with purpose helps us to ask important questions about power – how do good partnerships share and build power?
- Partnering with purpose is authentic and based on relationships rather than transactions or deliverables. It is the opposite of being egocentric and tokenistic.
- Partnering with purpose allows us to combine our resources, ideas, and skills for greater impact.
- Partnering with purpose opens a space for us to think about seeking new partners – people and organizations we may not have partnered with before, but who have a similar vision and goals.
- Partnering with purpose invites us to have difficult conversations. How are we giving a voice to the people we serve? How do our partnerships help us do this?
